

Can you please change a global setting on a shared server just for me?

In the past, we've had an increase in people begging, and repeatedly arguing for days on end to change global settings that may impact other users. Or it just may be incompatible with the kind of service we are offering.

Kindly understand that our time has value and our service is too inexpensive to spend days discussing this. Kindly consider that changing global settings impact thousands of other people.

As I said, you are welcome to ask but in case you receive a negative answer, it's a definitive answer. In these cases, we can send a quote for a VPS or dedicated server with or without a fully managed service.
